TRAINING

Consultative training focuses on a holistic view of your entire processing line. Allowing you to be equipped with the knowledge needed to make the most out of your process and machinery. We can be available on site to provide consultative services, training, commissioning or preventative maintenance. At Oliver we always offer meaningful technical support over the phone with the option to have support in person. In addition, we've partnered with the best distributing dealers in the business to bring you only the most qualified installation and training help.

REPLACEMENT PARTS

Genuine replacement parts are available from a large in-stock inventory, with a fast order and shipping system to match. And keep in mind, the people you talk to about repairs are the same ones who built your machine, so you can be assured that replacement parts are equal in quality to the originals.

MACHINE SERVICING/ REBUILDS

Going beyond the competition, we work how customers want to work to insure every installation will yield results day in and day out for life of ownership. Oliver works directly with engineering teams, plant managers, independent owners and multinationals.

SAMPLE TESTING

Whether you are interested in buying Oliver equipment and need to learn more or just want your material to be separated we can do that for you! We have all of our equipment ready to go in our lab portion of our facility for the optimal sample testing possible. See how our machines can make a difference for you and your separating needs!
